

Firepower will close on 8th July 2016 and vacate the Woolwich site by the end of 2016.

The development of a new purpose-built heritage centre close to the Royal Regiment's home at Larkhill on Salisbury Plain is in the early stages of planning.

For the duration of the transition period we will store the majority of the collection at a site owned by the Science Museum Group in Wiltshire. The collection will still be managed by a professional team employed by Royal Artillery Museums Limited but will not be open to the public while in storage.
